

CABINET CIGARS

THE choicest cigars of the old celebrated brands have been for years packed in CABINETS containing 500 to 10,000, and exported to Europe, London taking the larger proportion. These cigars represent the very cream of this product of the Havana; the finest in the world. The tobacco required for a CABINET cigar is always scarce, and commands a high price, and considerable care and attention is required in bringing it to perfection and preserving its curiously fine flavor and aroma when rolled into cigars.

A LIMITED importation of these cigars has been made into this country by the old established house of BENSON & HEDGES, of London, New York and Montreal, and is now on view at their establishments. Special containers have been designed which effectually preserve and mature these cigars and are sent with each cabinet. Customers residing at a distance desiring to try this tobacco can be supplied with a sample bundle (25 cigars).
